This woodworker's wood inventory contained a large number of exotic and native species in shorts (varying thicknesses & lengths & some flat stock), bowl blanks and pen blanks. All pieces are in excellent condition and are being offered to you for far less than retail. In fact, a large number of the pieces still have their retail price tags on them so you can see what you are saving by coming to this sale!

Dilemma

The West Michigan Woodworkers Guild is faced with a Dilemma. We all want 'Live' 'How-To' demonstrations of woodworking skills at our meetings! However, this is where our Dilemma starts to come into play.

The lighting, seating and viewing arrangements available to us at EKHS, when someone does a live presentation only a few members can see! Those who cannot clearly see what is being presented then start to have their own meetings in the back of the room. This disrupts the on-going presentation and the meeting overall, resulting in everyone being dissatisfied with the Guild meeting. Not Good!

An answer to this Dilemma is to capture demos with a 'Video streaming camera' and then project it onto a video screen or a digital display so everyone can see the demonstration.

Here is the Dilemma! Neither the Guild nor EKHS, has a 'live video streaming camera system' OR a digital display available! Plus, with our current projector, we need to darken the room to see what is being projected onto a screen! This creates another Dilemma!

Darkening the room makes it difficult and dangerous, for the presenter to safely see what they are doing.

The Dilemma doesn't stop there. If the Guild was to somehow to acquire this presentation system, EKHS cannot provide us with a storage area to keep the new equipment out of "Harm's Way!"

If the Guild had the equipment, it would mean that every time we wanted it, someone would have to pick it up, bring it to the meeting, unpack it, set it up, we used it, then safely repacked it, take it away to store it somewhere until we want to use it again. Would you like to be that Someone?

A Solution to a Dilemma

As stated in another article in this Newsletter, the WM Woodworkers Guild has a Dilemma with respect of how to best present and view 'Live' 'How-To' presentations at our meetings. Here is a possible way we can lessen that Dilemma.

While what is being suggested it will never replace the benefit of 'Live' 'How-To' demonstrations or satisfy everyone's desire for live presentations, it does provide a way to provide excellent training on many of the woodworking topics all of us would like to know more about.

Based on recent surveys of the members, there are over 60+ areas of woodworking we would like to know more about. While we will never be able to address all 60+ areas of interest in one meeting season, we can surely address the areas of highest interest.

How is this possible? We can use Videos! We can use technology that is available to us today and already paid for. The Guild has available over 175 professionally created training video classes on how to improve our woodworking skills plus there are 100s more available on the Internet. Using videos will allow us to use to our best advantage the facilities and equipment we now have available without incurring any addition expenses.

While this is not the ideal answer to our desire for 'Live' 'How-To' woodworking training, it does however offer a viable 'no additional cost' solution to the Dilemma we are trying to address regarding the viewing of training presentations at our meetings.

In the coming months, we can view some of the training videos the Guild has available to see if we like what they have to offer. We can then decide if videos are what we want to use until we can come up with a better solution to our presentation Dilemma.
