Should I bring my project in for Show & Tell time?

By Steve

I think we have all had this inner debate with ourselves at one point or another, and I dare say the following comments may have run through your head :

Are any of these familiar? Whether you think you are the most skilled woodworker east of the Mississippi, or a novice who just picked up their first board, the Guild wants to see what you do! Every one of us started at the beginning and is at a different skill level in different areas. We all have something to share and something to learn. Projects to show don't have to be polished or even finished. You don't have to wait until you have produced your 'Magnum Opus'. If all of us waited until we had produced perfect work, no one would ever show anything.

So the next time you look around your shop and wonder "Should I bring that in to show?" The answer is YES. The Guild is a safe place to appreciate what others have done, and also a safe place where your own work is appreciated.

PRESIDENT'S JOB:

The Guild Board will look like this:

President – Les Derusha

Vice President - ?

Secretary - ? (or Don Stump)

Treasurer- Tom Huizinga

Newsletter Creator – Dale Smith

Newsletter Editor – Gary Bekker

Member-At-Large – Bryan Vaughn

Member-At-Large – Phil Miclea

Member-At-Large – Sam Lacina

At our September meeting will firm up a slate of candidates for the actual election in October.

A second item on our agenda will be a discussion of the possibility of some mentoring between Guild members. I want this to be a very open-ended discussion of what "Could Be".

We are all potential recruiters of new members. It may be a casual social contact with someone who appears to be interested in woodworking. It may be at a craft show where you notice someone's woodworking product, you can simply introduce yourself, mention our website, our Facebook Group and invite them to our next meeting.

Even with all of today's technology, research consistently shows that the most effective marketing is word-of-mouth.
